

Turning 26? What you need to know about the Marketplace

If you're turning 26 this year and will age off your parent's health insurance plan, here are some different ways to stay covered:

Get health insurance through your job

If you're working and can get health insurance through your job, you may be able to enroll outside its yearly Open Enrollment Period if you lose your parent's coverage. Contact your human resources representative before turning 26 for your next steps.

Get a Marketplace insurance plan

At HealthCare.gov, you'll find a variety of plans and prices available to you. Depending on your situation, you may be eligible for savings based on your income. See if you'll save at HealthCare.gov/lower-costs/.

To get a Marketplace plan, you need to apply. It's important to know that if someone will claim you as a tax dependent on next year's tax return, their income will be included on the Marketplace application when we see whether you're eligible for savings. If you'll file your own taxes next year, you should fill out your own application.

When can you apply?

- If you're aging off your parent's Marketplace plan: You can stay on your parent's plan until coverage ends December 31 even if you turn 26 mid-year. But be sure to apply for a Marketplace plan of your own for next year by the Open Enrollment deadline. Your parents will also need to update their application to state that you won't be on their plan next year.
- If you're aging off your parent's job-based plan: Your coverage usually ends the month you turn 26. Even if it's outside Open Enrollment, you'll be able to get a Marketplace plan because losing other coverage qualifies you for a Special Enrollment Period. You'll have 60 days before you lose coverage and 60 days after that to enroll.

Get Medicaid or Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP) coverage

You can apply for Medicaid or CHIP at HealthCare.gov anytime. If you have limited income or are pregnant, you could qualify for free or low-cost coverage through Medicaid or CHIP. If you have children, they might qualify for coverage under Medicaid or CHIP – even if you don't qualify for Medicaid.

When you fill out a Marketplace application, you'll find out if you qualify for Medicaid and CHIP.
